AUTOBIOGRAPHY

THE ROMANCE OF MY CHILDHOOD AND YOUTH

By MME. ADAM (JULIETTE LAMBER).

Photogravure Portrait and Ornamental Title. 12mo. Cloth. Gilt Top. $1.40 net. Postage 14 cents additional.

One of the most interesting women whom French society and public life have known since the time of Mme. de Stael is Mme. Adam, whose pen-name, Juliette Lamber, is also her maiden name. The present volume is the first of a series of autobiographical recollections which she is now writing, and relates to a childhood and youth that were remarkably romantic.

TRAVEL

THROUGH THE HEART OF PATAGONIA

By HESKETH PRICHARD, Author of "Where Black Rules White—Hayti."

With Twenty Illustrations (some in color) from Drawings by J. G. Millais, Author of a "Breath From the Veldt"; and a large number of Illustrations from Photographs. Small Imperial 8vo. $5.50 net. Postage 40 cents additional.

HISTORY

OHIO AND HER WESTERN RESERVE

By ALFRED MATHEWS

The second volume in the Expansion of the Republic series.

Fully illustrated. 12mo. $1.25 net. Postage 12 cents additional.

One of the most remarkable movements of population which the United States have seen was that which led Connecticut people to settle in the Western Reserve. It involves the romantic story of Wyoming, where were waged the wars known as Pennamite, and where finally occured the massacre. Mr. Mathews deals with these picturesque incidents in our Colonial and Revolutionary history with clearness and originality.

POETRY

THE SAILING OF THE LONG SHIPS And Other POEMS

By HENRY NEWBOLDT

16mo. Title in colors. Superbly bound in vellum and Japanese grass cloth. Gilt Top. Water-marked paper, etc. $1.00 net. Postage 10 cents additional.

Mr. Newboldt has contributed a volume of charming verse, timely in conception, perfect in character, and well calculated to reward the interest of those who love poetry.

Memories of Vailima

By ISOBEL STRONG and LLOYD OSBOURNE. Illustrated from photographs in the possession of Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Strong and Lloyd Osbourne. 12mo, $1.20 net (postage 16 cents).

Mrs. Isobel Strong and Mr. Lloyd Osbourne, Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson's step-children, have here brought together their recollections of life in Stevenson's Samoan home, and elsewhere on the island. The book contains a chapter on Mrs. Strong's charming little Samoan protege and one on Samoan songs. There is also an unpublished poem by Stevenson.

The Third Edition with New Illustrations in Color from New Subjects

Oriental Rugs

By JOHN KIMBERLY MUMFORD. With 16 new full-page illustrations of rugs superbly reproduced in their full Oriental coloring, replacing the plates of former editions. Large 8vo, $7.50 net.

The American Laws of Bridge

As Adopted November, 1902

Authorized edition, - - - - 75 cents net.

Hegel's Logic:

An Essay in Interpretation

By JOHN GRIER HIBBEN, Ph.D., Stuart professor of Logic in Princeton University. $1.25 net (postage 12 cents).

Professor Hibben bases his essay on the conviction that Hegel's text, almost unintelligible though many find it, is in reality self-illuminating. He has therefore simplified technicalities and terms and explained their significance in the light of the definitions as given by Hegel himself and indicated by the context.

READY TO-DAY

General de Wet's Book

THREE YEARS' WAR

By CHRISTIAAN RUDOLF DE WET

With frontispiece by John S. Sargent plans, maps, etc.

THIS is the plain, bluff, unvarnished story of General de Wet's experiences and doings in the great struggle which took place between the Boer and the Briton. The simplicity of the narrative, its sincerity, its soldierly fairness and its unconscious eloquence, will make the book appeal to all men who enjoy a story of action; while the light it throws upon military operations and battles hitherto known only from the English viewpoint, gives it a genuine historical value.

A New Book by Mary Cholmondeley

MOTH AND RUST

By

MARY CHOLMONDELEY

Author of "Red Pottage," etc.

"Written with care, and with an unwonted excellence whose reward is sure to be an existence that may not be limited to the length of the passing season."—Boston Transcript.

"Adds to the reputation which her first book brought her. Abounds in careful studies of strong types and is most impressively told."—Oakland, Cal., Inquirer.

"A book of artistic literary merit and good reading. It is worthy of the author of "Red Pottage"—an assertion which carries high but deserved praise."—Rochester Democrat & Chronicle.

"A few characters, a real and tangible and exciting plot and scenery that is interesting make a capital and appealing story. Indeed, by reason of the interesting quality and the firm drawing of the leading personages of the tale, by reason of the eager motives that direct their actions, and by reason of virility in the narration, as well as the truly absorbing nature of the story that is told, the reader is carried along at a pace that, while not often of the 'breathless' order, is so intense as to make it hard to lay the book down, once the reader has got well into it. . . . . The book is artistic without forcing its literary art upon you."

ESHEK—The Oppressor

By Gertrude Potter Daniels

REPUBLISHED TUESDAY, DEC. 2, BY THE MADISON BOOK CO.

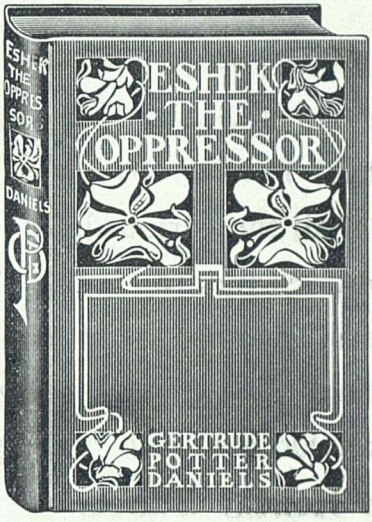
OF CHICAGO



ESHEK—The Oppressor has been largely advertised by Rand, McNally & Co., who published the book on Nov. 10, but who for trade reasons immediately withdrew it from sale. By consent of the author we secured the publication rights and have reissued the work from the original plates, unchanged in any respect. The original attractive binding is retained; also the eight beautiful full-page pictures in colors.

ESHEK—The Oppressor is a realistic romance dealing with modern industrial and social conditions in a fresh and vigorous manner. While an entertaining story for the average reader, it will furnish the thinker with many original points on which to reflect.

ESHEK—The Oppressor has been and will be well advertised and will be in strong demand. It should be in your stock.

RALPH CONNOR'S LATEST

GLENGARRY SCHOOL DAYS

Illustrated. $1.25

WE HAVE BEEN ASKED

Is this Book "Fiction" or "Juvenile"?

IT IS BIGGER THAN EITHER—IT IS BOTH!

OPINIONS WORTH READING

"Sturdy and Fresh"

"THERE is a sturdy freshness in the life along that 'Glengarry' strip of woods. The sturdy simplicity of character and condition are happily matched by the unaffected directness of telling."—Evening Sun, New York.

"Rugged and Strong"

"THERE is much in the sweet naturalness of the book to remind one of Barrie's work, while there is a ruggedness and strength which is entirely Ralph Connor's own."—Boston Beacon.

"Giants in Embryo"

"IN Ralph Connor's latest book we are introduced to the men, women and circumstances which helped to make and mould these giants of a by-gone generation. The same sound, sane, healthy tone pervades this book as is to be found in its predecessors."—Booksellers' Bulletin.

"Things are Happening All the Time"

"IT is a fair question whether, from the artist's standpoint, the author has not given us in this book some bits that he has not equalled elsewhere. Having in hand what is essentially a boy's story, it was natural that he should write with absolute freedom and an unconsciousness of any restraint that would result in word pictures that fairly pulsate with life. When an author of Ralph Connor's undoubted genius is overtaken in that fashion, things happen—and that is just what one finds in 'Glengarry School Days'—things are happening all the time."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Grips the Heart"

"RALPH CONNOR'S new book is alive, human and wholesome. . . . There is a human and natural touch in it that grips the heart. The same subtle quality pervades the whole book, and whether the matter be humorous, pathetic or dramatic, the characters always seem real."—Record-Herald.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. publish to-day the fourth volume of the Variorum edition of the "Works of Edward Fitz Gerald," arranged with bibliography and notes by George Bentham.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just ready a volume of essays, entitled "Incentives for Life," by Dr. James M. Ludlow, well known as the author of "Deborah," "The Captain of the Janizaries," etc.

THE CENTURY COMPANY publishes to-day "The Memoirs of Paul Kruger" told by himself, which is described as more than an autobiography; it is a powerful defense of one of the most extraordinary political careers of modern times.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. report that they have just ready the second edition of Bishop Spalding's volume of essays, entitled "Socialism and labor," which contains some of the prelates most characteristic utterances on the subject. The first edition of "The Conquest," by Eva Emery Dye, published November 12, is fully exhausted, and a second edition of 10,000 copies is now printing. "The Conquest" promises to take a leading place among the notable books of 1902.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish at once a volume of interest to horse owners, entitled "First-Hand Bits of Stable Lore," by Francis M. Ware, the well-known manager of horse shows, who in this book epitomizes thirty years' active personal experience with every kind of horse for every conceivable purpose. The volume will be adequately illustrated. They have just ready "Boston Days," by Lilian Whiting, in which the author of "The World Beautiful," has aimed to crystallize into literary record the unique phases and exceptional movements that have stamped their impress upon the City of the Puritans; "The Last Days of Pekin," by Pierre Loti, translated by Myrta L. Jones, in which the author, who was aide-de-camp to Vice-Admiral Pottier, commander-in-chief of the French squadron in the Far East during the occupation of Pekin by the foreign armies, gives a vivid description of his experiences in the imperial city of China; also, a third edition of John R. Carling's dashing romance "The Shadow of the Czar."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day General de Wet's book, "Three Year's War," the keynote of which is :"Had not so many of our burghers proved false to their own colors, England, as the great Bismarck foretold, would have found her grave in South Africa." It is the plain, bluff, unvarnished story of General de Wet's experiences and doings in the great struggle which took place between the Boer and the Briton. The simplicity of the narrative, its sincerity, its soldierly fairness and its unconscious eloquence, will make the book appeal to all men who enjoy a story of action; while the light it throws upon military operations and battles hitherto known only from the English viewpoint, gives it a genuine historical value. The volume has a portrait of de Wet by John S. Sargent, plans, maps, etc. They have also just ready "Memories of Vailima," by Isobel Strong and Lloyd Osbourne, illustrated from photographs; an authorized edition of "The American Laws of Bridge," as adopted November, 1902; a third edition of John Kimberly Mumford's work on "Oriental Rugs," with new illustrations in color from new subjects; also, "Hegel's Logic: an essay in interpretation," by Professor John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University.

Eighteen rare pamphlets or tracts are here gathered into one volume which has an interesting bearing upon the money question as it arose in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay two hundred years ago. The discussion centres about a proposal in 1714 for establishing a bank of credit on a plan which was originally submitted in 1688. It discloses with much clearness the financial condition of the Province and the state of knowledge concerning finance in the community. As many of the pamphlets reprinted are very rare, the editor has been at pains to reproduce the spelling, capitalization, and italics of the originals; and photographic copies of the title-pages furnish the illustration of the volume.

The monograph opens with a brief discussion of the methodology of source investigations in general, and of Plutarch's "Lives" in particular. Then follows an enumeration of all the works dealing with Cicero which were accessible to a writer of Plutarch's time. The author thereupon proves that the accepted theory that the biographer directly consulted the writings of Cicero, Sallust, Livy, Tiro, and other contemporaries, rests on no foundation, and shows that the authorities followed by Plutarch were post-Augustan, and that he was most extensively indebted to Suetonius' "Life of Cicero."

It has been the aim of the author, in preparing this work, to furnish a series of books that shall be of practical value to all who have to do with building operations, and especially to architects, draughtsmen and builders. The first volume is a guide to the materials used in architectural masonry and the most approved methods of doing the various kinds of work. The second volume describes those materials and methods of construction that come within the ordinary province of the carpenter, or are usually included in the carpenter's specifications. A third volume is in preparation on "Trussed roofs and roof trusses."

*Kropotkin, Piotrievitch Alexeieovitch. Mutual aid: a factor of evolution. N. Y., McClure, Phillips & Co., 1902. 19+348 p. O. cl., $2.50 net.

Prince Kropotkin thinks it has been taken too much for granted that evolution of the race takes place only by the weakest going to the wall and by the stronger surviving, and that any means of preventing this natural process will lead to the degeneration of the race. He shows that among animals, savages, barbarians, and modern races there is another side to the question, suggested by Darwin. He explains by many examples the large extent to which mutual aid replaces competition.

*Kruger, Paul. The memoirs of Paul Kruger, four times President of the South African Republic, told by himself. N. Y., Century Co., 1902. [N.] c. 13+444 p. pors. O. cl., $3.50 net.

This account of the life of the famous ex-President of the South African Republic is strictly autobiographical. The earlier chapters deal with his boyhood and youth, especially with his experiences as a hunter and soldier. They furnish also a narrative of the great Trek, the foundation of the Transvaal state, etc. When he comes to the last great and fateful struggle with England he sets forth the case of the South African Republic with great clearness, relying throughout upon documents and events about which there can be no question. He fiercely assaults Rhodes, Chamberlain, and Milner.

*Lang, Andrew. A history of Scotland from the Roman occupation. In 3 v. v. 2. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1902. 14+575 p. por. O. cl., $3.50 special net.

In the first volume Mr. Lang examined the elements and forces which went to the making of the Scottish people, and recorded the more important events which occurred between the Roman occupation and the death of Cardinal Beaton in 1546. The second volume continues the history. In both volumes he has endeavored to introduce as much as possible the element of personal character and adventure, when duly vouched for by contemporary chroniclers, or, what is better, by contemporary letters and documents.

*Larned, Josephus Nelson. A primer of right and wrong; for young people in schools and families. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1902. [N.] c. 6+167 p. S. cl., 70 c. net.

A plain, common-sense presentment of the basic and permanent elements of good morals. Some of the titles of chapters are: Right and wrong; Self-control and the formation of habit; Integrity—Honor—Honesty, and typical among the examples cited is that of Scott's life labors in the interest of his creditors.

A protest against hasty reading and too much reading. The author divides his work into four books. Bk. 1, "Interferences with the reading habit," has for topics civilization, the disgrace of the imagination, the unpopularity of the first person singular, the habit of not letting one's self go, the habit of analysis, literary drill in college, Librarians—wanted an old-fashioned librarian. Bk. 2 is entitled "Possibilities." Bk. 3, Details, The confessions of an unscientific mind—discusses reading for principles, for facts, for results, for feelings, etc. Bk. 4 is called "What to do next."

Van Eden, Frederik. The deeps of deliverance; from the Dutch by Margaret Robinson; with an introd. by Will H. Dircks. N. Y., Putnam, 1902. c. 7+364 p. D. cl., $1.20 net.

Frederik Van Eeden is one of the most distinguished living Dutch writers. Like Tolstoy and Görki he concerns himself with the more intimate truths of life. The present work tells the life-history of Hedwig Marga de Fontayne. It traces the evolution of the soul of a woman with a singularly daring realism, but a realism marked by a moral significance. The story is a study of the inner life, a tragedy of temperament and circumstances.

One of the few sixteenth-century English dramas still inaccessible in modern type. It is a morality play with a peculiar historical interest. It is a Reformation drama on the Protestant side, like most of the moralities, with a combined moralistic and doctrinal design, and it presents most of the morality devices, including the vice in its fullest development.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 6, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD BOOKKEEPING.

IT would be difficult to believe, did not facts make incredulity impossible, that any one engaged in business should require admonition to follow one of the very first principles of business—namely, to keep a full and clear account of all his transactions. The secret of many failures among the small dealers in books lies no doubt in the slovenly habit of not knowing exactly what business is being done, what leakages occur, and where losses might be cut, together with the earliest moment for the cutting process. There are some who think that when they have bought a certain article for a dollar and sell it for a dollar and twenty-five cents that they have taken in twenty-five per cent. more money than they paid out in the actual purchase of the article, forgetting that there is a difference between gross profits and net profits, and that just as likely as not the transaction referred to may have been one of no real profit at all. In transacting business of any kind expenses are involved; and it must be evident to any one who does business in a sane and systematic manner that the item of the expense of doing business must be covered by the gross profits before a dealer can be said to be making any money. And yet, every week in the year, almost, some specimen of merchant turns up to whom this very alphabet of merchandizing was a sealed book, and the ignorance of which proved his ruin.

It is a too common mistake to suppose that only a large business demands the strict keeping of a full series of books. Small transactions no more than large ones can be accurately gauged mentally, as every one will find out to his cost, sooner or later. Only permanent records in black and white are of any real value as guides and helpers in those continual rearrangements which altered circumstances and unexpected contingencies make necessary from time to time. Unless one keeps his accounts in a thoroughly systematic manner, it is comparatively easy to be deceived as to the actual cost of doing business. The slightest laxity very often may make a considerable difference in the day's balance. There are certain charges which are always in evidence, like rent, clery hire, light, etc.; but there are minor items which, though they occur as often as those mentioned, are less conspicuous, while others attract less notice because of their infrequency. A hundred little details unchecked and unaccounted for promptly may cause discrepancies that are bound to expand with the proverbial qualities of the mustard seed, until the luckless dealer finds himself surrounded with losses, unexpected and unaccountable, and probably faces ruin.

Many avoid systematic bookkeeping because it suggests thoughts of late hours and intricate work, instead of conveying, as it should, the idea of a labor-saving, mind-sparing, money-making device of the simplest possible character. Others are too lazy, and some don't want to know how they stand, being afraid to face the facts and hoping somehow to pull through. How foolish on the one hand, and how futile on the other, any one of the courses described is, should be self-evident; yet every year gives fresh evidence that one of the most vital factors in doing business is either improperly performed or wholly neglected. No business man has a right to neglect the ordinary precaution of keeping the most accurate account possible of his business operations. It is a duty he owes to his creditors, to his family and to himself.

WE regret to be unable to fill any further orders for the Christmas Bookshelf, the supply of which is quite exhausted. We are, however, still able to supply a small quantity of the Christmas number of The Literary News, an attractive and inexpensive aid to the bookseller at this season of the year.

THE FATE OF UNSOLD BOOKS.

GEORGE OWEN KOCH recently contributed to the New York Times Saturday Review of Books an interesting article on the fate of unsold books, from which we quote the following:

". . . The ultimate fate of books can be told briefly. They go to the paper mills. But the journey thither deserves a few words. One who has not been in the paper stock supply business can have no adequate idea of the quantity of volumes, structurally sound from cover to cover, that are cast aside every day. Statistics cannot be compiled, but New York City undoubtedly witnesses the final step but one in the destruction of tons of novels, histories, biographies, philosophical and scientific treatises, etc., every twenty-four hours. The same may be said of other centres of population.

"Several steps lead toward the acid-bearing vats of the mills where the books are 'digested' more completely than their makers ever desired, although authors and publishers hope the output of genius and skill will be assimilated thoroughly. These steps in the life road of books are about as follows: Inspiration, thought, (more or less,) writing, printing, and binding and marketing. Here are the road forks. Some volumes turn to the right and follow that branch of the path which leads them to readers with whom they remain for a while. Others halt and then turn to the left. Their way is short.

"That the marketing step often is fatal the guild of letters knows to its sorrow. And, no matter how small numerically first editions may be, if unsold they accumulate at an alarming rate in the possession of publishers. Proving worthless as books, they are useless as anything else, and the demand for the room they occupy forces them uncut, unread, unhonored to the tomb. When ready for burial they are turned over to a funeral director in the person of a paper stock dealer. He pays for them prices ranging from half a cent a pound down to 15 cents a hundredweight, according to the value to him of the material of which they are composed. The heavier and more ornate the binding the less the book is worth to the stock dealer. Leather, wire, glue and gold leaf do not make over into paper readily. The more wood pulp in their composition, the less they are valued at the mills. Books the paper of which is made wholly of rags are desirable as stock. The material has a strength and continuity of fibre which allows of reworking with little loss, while every bit of wood pulp decreases the desirability just so much, as its fibre is weak and short, and, to a large extent, washes away in the vats.

"In the undertaker's shop of the stock dealer the books that have died in the nursery for lack of attention meet brothers which have seen the world and have been worn out in the service of mankind. But to the funeral director they are all the same. Their preparation for burial is similar.

"Purchased after a calculation of the tare represented in their bindings, the first work in making ready for their entombment is to 'strip' and 'sort' them. . . . The backs, as the bindings are called, are thrown into one pile, the naked corpses of literature into others. The backs are almost total loss to the stock dealer, as he cannot sell them for enough to pay for handling. They are disposed of to mills that make coarse heavy paper for roofing and packing.

"The stripped books are thrown into different piles roughly representing the grades of paper in them, although exactitude in sorting is not aimed at nowadays, because there is very little print paper unadulterated with wood pulp. But a batch of books printed on all rag paper is baled separately.

"Put into bales weighing from 500 to 1500 pounds each, the books are sent on the last stage of their journey to the cemeteries of the mills, where, during interment in great tubs, they undergo a cleansing and altering process truly purgatorial, to emerge free from stains of inky sins, but books no longer. They are pulp.

"Contrary to popular notion, this pulp does not form paper of a quality similar to that in which it once existed. It has lost strength in the remaking process, and, if it goes again into print material, serves as the foundation of a cheaper grade or as an adulterant in paper otherwise composed of rags or new wood. Sometimes it is used to lighten the color of fine wrapping papers. But it always requires the addition of fresh material, and its second state is never as good as the first.

"Such is the tale of what becomes of all the books. As man begins movement toward the grave at the moment of his conception, so a book starts on its way to the boiling vats of the mill at the moment of its inspiration. Some volumes, like some men, reach a great age, yet final disintegration is inevitable. There are uncommon instances of the petrification of human bodies after life is extinct; there are instances of the petrification of old volumes after a period of usefulness. But 'these, too, shall pass away.' For books and men are embalmed permanently only in memory."

PUBLISHING AT THE EXPENSE OF THE GOVERNMENT.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT in his Annual Message gives the following needed warning as to the tendency of over-stimulating printing at the expense of the Government:

"There is a growing tendency to provide for the publication of masses of documents for which there is no public demand and for the printing of which there is no real necessity. Large numbers of volumes are turned out by the Government printing presses for which there is no justification. Nothing should be printed by any of the departments unless it contains something of permanent value, and the Congress could with advantage cut down very materially on all the printing which it has now become customary to provide. The excessive cost of Government printing is a strong argument against the position of those who are inclined on abstract grounds to advocate the Government's doing any work which can with propriety be left in private hands."

DISCOUNTS TO THE CUSTOMER.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY issue in a daily bulletin a sort of heart-to-heart talk with their customers, which, owing to the clever way in which the subjects have thus far been presented, has attracted considerable attention. From one of the more recent of these bulletins we extract the following, which strikes us as of general interest enough to deserve reading and quoting in a wider circle:

"It does not seem to us that the casual buyer should receive the full unprofitable discount that custom has hitherto decreed shall be the rule rather than the exception. It requires the knowledge of the professional man and the genius of the business man to assemble within the limitations of a bookseller's capital a stock that will gratify the varying taste of the regular and the casual buyer.

"It is our conviction that the bookseller, as such, not the mere book trader, has before him an opportunity more carefully to study the quality of his stock—quality rather than quantity—that he may attract good customers. The logical result will be the elimination of the miscellaneous trader and the construction of your book shop into the natural meeting place for the brains and genius of your community. We emphasize this: It is now a question of stock and method, not the catch-penny odd price, not the varying price, but one price, with the contest centred around the ability of the bookseller to study and provide for the needs of his patrons."

THE MORALITY OF THE "ARABIAN NIGHTS" ON TRIAL.

THE case of Merrill & Baker vs. George R. Parry, to recover the price of a subscription to one set of Burton's "Arabian Nights," in seventeen volumes, came before Judge Wilson of the Common Pleas Court No. 4 at Philadelphia, on November 24. Parry's excuse for not paying for the books as set out in his affidavit of defence is that the stories are of such an obscene and vulgar character that he is unable to permit them to be placed among other books of his library. He says that he has been compelled to keep them under cover so they could not be observed. He further explained that he paid the plaintiffs $30 for the books before this knowledge of their profane character came to his notice, when he immediately notified the company to remove the books and refund his money. He now holds the books subject to their order. The court was called on to decide whether Burton's translation of the "Arabian Nights" is a work affected by the statute forbidding the sale of obscene books. But Judge Wilson declined the request, saying that the exigencies of the case at the present time did not warrant the expression of the court's opinion on the point raised.

The motion for judgment was held under advisement.

THE NEW YORK BIBLE SOCIETY REPORT.

THE seventy-eighth annual report of the New York Bible Society just issued, shows a year of active work in Bible distribution among immigrants, sailors, churches, missions, institutions, families, and individuals in this city. The work among the immigrants is represented by 31,333 volumes in twenty-three different languages; 8,970 volumes in thirteen different languages were placed among the sailors in the harbor; 7220 volumes were taken by churches, Sunday-schools, missions, and public institutions; 9,164 volumes were placed in the hands of individuals and families; these, together with what were placed in hotels, lodging-houses, hospitals, city prisons, and other places, make the whole number of volumes placed during the last year 62,583.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

DENMARK TO JOIN THE BERNE CONVENTION.

A BILL dealing with Danish literary and artistic copyright, and proposing to make Denmark join the Convention of Berne, has been brought forward by the Danish Government, and is likely to pass into law this session.

THE LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS URGES THE REVISION OF THE COPYRIGHT LAWS.

MR. HERBERT PUTNAM, the librarian of Congress, in his annual report to Congress, includes a reference to the plea made by Mr. Thorvald Solberg, the Register of Copyrights, for the necessity of revising the copyright laws as follows:

"In my last year's report I called attention to the need for a revision of the copyright laws. In view of the many and diverse interests affected by such legislation, I suggested that it would seem more probable that these would receive the proportionate attention they require if the task of preparing a codified text of the copyright laws were intrusted by Congress to a commission adequately representing the different interests concerned. This recommendation, that a copyright commission be appointed, I beg to urge again upon your attention. Our law as it stands is inadequate not only by reason of being based on antiquated models . . . but it is difficult of interpretation, application and administration, because of textual inconsistencies and contradictions."

OBITUARY.

JOSEPH MACKENZIE CUSHING.

JOSEPH MACKENZIE CUSHING, the active representative of a name known to the book-trade of this country nearly one hundred years, died in Baltimore, Md., November 23. Mr. Cushing had been suffering from indigestion for several weeks but attended business as usual until Saturday afternoon. He retired early on Saturday evening; on Sunday noon his brother-in-law, Judge Thomas J. Morris, with whom he lived at 708 Park Avenue, becoming uneasy at his non-appearance went to Mr. Cushing's room. He found him lying in bed as if asleep, but upon going closer discovered he was dead. The physician who had been treating Mr. Cushing was summoned and stated that Mr. Cushing had been dead for several hours.

Mr. Cushing was born in Baltimore, December 15, 1835. He was the son of Joseph Cushing, Jr., and a grandson of Joseph Cushing who founded the business of which Mr. Joseph M. Cushing was the head, in 1810. His father went to Baltimore in 1808 with his parents from New Hampshire. His mother was Miss Ann Mackenzie, daughter of Dr. Colin Mackenzie of Baltimore. Mr. Cushing received his early education at the school of Dr. McNally and then went to Harvard where he was graduated in 1855. He was in that year admitted to his father's firm which, upon the admission of Lewis E. Bailey, sometime in the forties, had become Cushing & Bailey. After Mr. Bailey's death on January 21, 1899, the firm became Cushing & Co. and Mr. Cushing took almost sole control. Notwithstanding the close attention Mr. Cushing paid to his extensive and growing book and stationery business he found considerable time to devote to public interests. He was an uncompromising Unionist during the Civil War and took active part in saving Maryland to the Federal cause. Since 1864 almost every hour not claimed by his business was devoted to the development of the public school system. In that year he also became connected with the Maryland Institute, of which he became president, and to whose success he contributed in a large measure. He was also a member of the State Board of Education, a founder of the Colored Normal School and a director of the Maryland School for the Blind. He was a director and vice-president of the Savings Bank of Baltimore, of which his grandfather was the first president and which he served without pay. Although not a clubman in any way, Mr. Cushing held membership in the Maryland, the University, the Athenæum, the Germania, the Merchants' and the Harvard Clubs. He was a happy and entertaining public speaker, often holding by his personal magnetism hundreds of listeners long after they had become weary with the attempt of others at speechmaking. Indeed, Mr. Cushing was a man of rare ability and qualities—generous, public spirited, and always ready to help his personal friends and the public. In the trade as well as in public affairs he was a leader whose counsel and inspiration will be sorely missed. Mr. Cushing never married. He is survived by a brother, Wiley F. Cushing, and two sisters, Miss Annie Cushing and Mrs. Thomas J. Morris with whom he had made his home for years.

OBITUARY NOTES.

OLIVER M. BLANCHARD, who was connected with the book business for upwards of thirty-five years, died at Gardiner, Me., November 10, aged sixty-eight.

WILLIAM H. BLAUVELT, who for seven years conducted the Gladstone Bookstore at Richfield Springs, N. Y., died November 9, aged sixty-two. Last spring when his health failed he sold out his book business to George W. Hyde.

CHARLES WILLIAM TEMPLE, president of the Temple & Farrington Company, booksellers, died at Manchester, N. H., November 7. Mr. Temple was born in Vermont in 1846, but was brought up in Manchester. He entered the employ of W. H. Fisk, bookseller, as a boy. After the death of Mr. Fisk, Mr. Temple with Henry A. Farrington bought the Fisk business, which was turned into a stock company in 1886. His son, Charles A. Temple, is connected with the firm.

HENRY A. DICKERMAN, the founder of the publishing and jobbing firm of Henry A. Dickerman & Son, of 55 Franklin Street, Boston, died at Taunton, Mass., November 23. Mr. Dickerman began in the book and stationery business in Taunton over thirty years ago. He was also connected with the insurance business of Hammond, Morse & Co., and was a prominent real estate dealer. His wife, a daughter and two sons, Henry A. Dickerman, Jr., and Lester Dickerman, survive him.

WILLIAM ALLAN WILDE, founder of the publishing firm of W. A. Wilde Company, died at his home in Malden, Mass., December 2. He was born in Acton, Mass., July 11, 1827, and in early life was a school teacher. In 1859 he took charge of the New England business of Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co. In 1868 he formed the firm of W. A. Wilde & Co., at 1 Cornhill, Boston. Later the firm was changed to W. A. Wilde Company. Mr. Wilde was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature from 1887 to 1888, and was chairman of the State Prison Commission from 1889 to 1894.

SEPTIMUS WINNER, the composer of "The Mocking Bird," "What is Home Without a Mother," and hundreds of other popular songs, died on November 23 in Philadelphia, where he was born on May 11, 1827. Mr. Winner, who for years kept a music store at Eighth and Spring Garden Streets, was the author of 200 technical books on musical instruments and arranged over 2,000 compositions for the violin and piano. He was a frequent contributor to Graham's Magazine, when Poe was editor of that periodical and recently published a piece in verse entitled "The Cogitations of a Crank."

THE REV. DR. JOSEPH PARKER, since 1869 pastor of the City Temple, London, died at Hampstead, November 28. He was born in Hexham-on-Tyne, April 9, 1830, and began to preach in 1848, as a Wesleyan Methodist. Later he joined the Congregational Church, and filled pulpits in Banbury and Manchester, until 1858, when he went to London, to take charge of the Old Poultry Chapel out of which grew the City Temple. He visited the United States in 1873, and formed a warm friendship for Henry Ward Beecher, whose eulogy he delivered on the occasion of his second visit to this country in 1887. Dr. Parker produced a monumental work in "The People's Bible," a homiletic and expository commentary, which was extended to twenty-five volumes. His other works include "Ecce Deus," a reply to "Ecce Homo;" "The Paraclete," "Ad Clerum," "Weaver Stephen," "Springdale Abbey," a novel; "Studies in Texts," in six volumes, and his autobiography, which appeared in 1898.

THOMAS HENRY FRENCH, publisher of plays and dramatic agent, died at Delmonico's, New York, December 2, aged fifty-four. Mr. French was the only son of Samuel French, who died in London in April, 1898. The father was born in Maine, in 1818, and began his play publishing business in New York City before the first half of the century was passed. In 1872 he went to London and bought the business of T. H. Lacy, and thereafter the name of French on the cover of a playbook was known all over the world where English was spoken and theatres existed. After he took up his headquarters in England his son became his American agent, and established his own headquarters in New York City. Besides acting as his father's agent, Mr. French was connected on his own account with many theatrical enterprises. He built the Broadway and the American theatres, and for a time was manager of the Garden Theatre in New York.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

"MR. DOOLEY"—that is, Mr. Finley Peter Dunne—is shortly to be married to Miss Margaret Abbott, well known in literary and artistic circles, and will settle down in a house he has just rented on Thirty-sixth Street, just west of Fifth Avenue, New York.

IT is a common belief that Huckleberry Finn is Mark Twain himself. Even Punch published some verses not long since which were founded on this idea. But it is not so. Mark Twain's original in his books is Tom Sawyer, not Huck Finn, and Mr. Clemens himself is the authority for this statement.

COLONEL HARVEY, president of Harper & Brothers, gave a dinner on November 28, at the Metropolitan Club, New York City, to Mark Twain to celebrate Mr. Clemens's sixty-seventh birthday. Covers were laid for fifty-four. Among the speakers were Thomas B. Reed, Chauncey Depew, Wayne McVeagh, Dr. van Dyke, W. D. Howells, Hamilton W. Mabie, St. Clair McKelway, and Colonel Harvey. Mr. Clemens was the last to speak and of course, scored handsomely on all the speakers who had an inning with him during the evening.

H. S. MERRIMAN, author of "The Vultures," is said to be totally indifferent to fame. He lives quietly, says little, and writes much. He has never cared for sport, even in his earlier years, and on account of threatened ill-health has taken many sea voyages and journeys, in the course of which he secretly wrote romances. When his father placed him in business in London, his continued delicacy of constitution sent him frequently abroad, where he wrote stories and concealed all knowledge of them from his family and the world, publishing them anonymously. After the death of his father, who was a director of the London Graphic, he avowed his authorship, and devoted himself entirely to novel writing. His books are among the most popular stories of the day. The Harpers, who publish "The Vultures," are making a new edition.

THE surrogate has passed on the accounts of the estate of the late Paul L. Ford, which according to the appraiser was worth $214,691, less expenses and debts, which leaves the amount distributable $205,000. In listing the author's personal property, the appraiser includes the following list of future interests in books written and edited by Mr. Ford:

"Hugh Gaine"	$200
"Wanted: A Chaperon"	12,000

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The National Newsdealer is to be published weekly from 173 Washington Street, Chicago, at $1 a year.

S. R. CROCKETT's new novel for next year will be published serially in Leslie's Monthly. Its provisional title is "The Adventurer in Spain." It will appear subsequently in book form through the Frederick A. Stokes Company.

The Library, edited by J. Y. W. MacAlister and published by Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co., will be discontinued after this year. Mr. MacAlister has done good work for the last thirteen years in serving the cause of librarianship and bibliography; but notwithstanding all this he is obliged to take in his sign and shut up his shop for lack of patrons.

THE statement is made, upon reliable authority, that since the reorganization of the firm of Harper & Brothers the circulation of the Harper periodicals has increased to the extent of more than two millions and a half of copies, and that the income from the increased sales has directly amounted to $636,998. The North American Review, which after eighty years of more or less vicissitudinous existence became a Harper publication only since the reorganization of the firm, is said to have tripled its circulation. The current issue of Harper's Weekly, dated December 6, promises to be the largest issue of an illustrated weekly periodical ever published in this country. It will contain 100 pages, of which 16 will be picture pages printed in color, and will represent Christmas in many phases. The editorial comment will be omitted in this special number, the space being filled by 15 short stories by W. D. Howells, Mark Twain, John Kendrick Bangs, Josephine Dodge Daskam, Elizabeth G. Jordan, Roy Rolfe Gilson, Morgan Robertson, Van Tassel Sutphen, Charles Battell Loomis, and others writers of note.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUSTIN, TEX.—As already noted the Gammel Book Company has been incorporated, with a capital of $200,000 under the corporate name of Gammel-Statesman Publishing Co., for the purpose of publishing Texas law books and the Austin Statesman, established in 1871, the second oldest newspaper in the State. The company has bought what is known as the Board of Trade Building in Austin for $30,000, which will be remodeled at an expense of $8000 in order to make it a modern printing establishment.

BIG RAPIDS, MICH.—Groulx & Bidwell, who succeeded D. M. Groulx, have added a book and stationery department to their store.

BOONE, IOWA.—White & Young, of Chicago, have opened a new book store just south of the Wells House. They represent Joseph Mandel, of Chicago.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Old Corner Bookstore has been incorporated with a capital stock of $66,000, all of which is paid in. The president is Winthrop Ames, of Easton, Mass., and the treasurer, George A. Moore, of Boston.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Gestefeld Publishing Company has removed from Pelham, N. Y., to 185 Dearborn Street, this city.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—Foltz & Hardy, booksellers and stationers, established in business since 1900, have become incorporated as the Foltz & Hardy Book, Stationery and Art Company, by L. C. Foltz, S. R. Earnest and C. W. Hardy. Mr. Hardy is to be president of the company, Mr. Earnest, vice-president, and Mr. Foltz, secretary and treasurer. Both the members of the former partnership are well known throughout the community. Mr. Earnest, who acquires an interest in the business and becomes one of the members of the corporation, which, by the way, is a close corporation, has recently come to Colorado Springs from Knoxville, Tenn., in which city he was a banker. The principal office of the company will be Colorado Springs. The Pueblo business, which is just about to open to the public, is to be located in the new Liebhardt building, opposite the postoffice, where the company has secured a five-year lease and expects to put in a store larger than the one in this city and carry a stock in the line of books, stationery and art goods, including two art galleries, in every way as complete as that carried in this city.

DE MARS, IOWA.—J. N. Matthias, bookseller and stationer, has made an assignment.

GUNNISON, COL.—T. J. Kane and P. C. Boyles have consolidated their business under the firm name of Boyles & Kane, booksellers and stationers.

MCCOOK, NEB.—Barney Hofer has bought the book and stationery store in the post-office building.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—The Williams Book Store has moved to larger quarters at 317 Hennepin Avenue. E. J. Metcalf, who has been with the Williams store for the past three years, has become manager of the book department of the Minneapolis Dry Goods Company.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—The H. W. Wilson Company, booksellers and stationers, has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000.

NEW RICHMOND, WIS.—F. A. Bunnel has opened a book, news and stationery store here.

ROCHESTER, IND.—Robert Rannells has bought the interest of E. C. Stanton in the book and stationery business of Stanton & Sterner.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

ELLIOT STOCK announces a cheap reissue of some of the volumes of the Booklover's Library.

METHUEN & CO. announces a volume of essays on "Old Picture Books," by Alfred Pollard, reprinted from seven or eight different magazines.

DR. BERNHARD LUNSTEDT has completed his bibliography of Swedish Periodical Literature, which has been in progress since 1895. The work is in three octavo volumes, and embraces the history of Swedish periodicals from 1645 to 1899. It occupies nearly twelve hundred pages, cataloging 3208 different publications.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY, Cleveland, O., have just issued the third supplement to their "Catalogue of the Best Books in Every Department of Literature." The arrangement is by classes, but the whole is easily accessible through a comprehensive author and title index. Nearly every title has a helpful and informing descriptive note. (8+ 423 p. 8°.)

THE INDEX PUBLISHING COMPANY, Bloomington, Ind., is publishing a Quarterly Bibliography of Books Reviewed in Leading American Periodicals, edited by George Flavel Danforth, librarian of the Indiana University. The Quarterly indexes book reviews in about thirty of the more prominent periodicals under the name of the author of the book and cumulates the matter four times a year. Within the limits set the editor is doing a useful work that should meet with the support of libraries especially. (v. 1, January-September, $1.50 a year.)

THE Review of Reviews, London, issue its annual "Index to the Periodicals" for 1901, after a longer delay than usual. As a rule, this index appears by July, which is several months later than its American congeners. The present volume indexes 196 British and American periodicals, and has a preface by W. T. Stead, reviewing the great development of periodical literature since 1890, when this index was begun. The editor, Miss Hetherington, gives the usual introductory survey of the periodicals of 1901-2, and notes important bibliographies appearing in the periodicals of 1901.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Joseph Baer & Co., 6 Hochstr., Frankfurt, a.M., Altfranzösisch u. Provenzalisch. (No. 466, 704 titles;) also Numismatik-Altertum u. Orient. Y., Americana, Masonry, first editions, botany, etc. (No. 16, 863 titles.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

RICHARD HENRY STODDARD has decided to bequeath his collection of books, autographs and manuscripts to the Author's Club.

C. W. RAINES, Austin, Tex., announces "The Year Book for Texas for 1902-1903," a useful historical, literary and statistical work.

E. F. BONAVENTURE, 6 West Thirty-third Street, New York, is giving an exhibition of artistic book bindings, which will remain open until December 8.

THE HUDSON-KIMBERLY PUBLISHING CO., Kansas City, will publish at once a collection of the writings of the late Senator John James Ingalls, edited by William E. Connelley.

S. S. RIDER, Providence, R. I., announces that he has nearly completed his "History of the Development of a Constitutional Government in Rhode Island." After he has published this work, he will resume the issues of his series of Rhode Island Historical Tracts.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE expects to give its annual dinner the latter part of January next. The following gentlemen have been appointed to act as the entertainment committee: Frank D. Waterman, chairman; James C. Aikin, Patrick Farrelly, Lyman B. Sturgis, and Col. George B. M. Harvey.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. announce that the three-volume trade edition of "The Speeches and Other Writings of Daniel Webster, Hitherto Uncollected," has been postponed until after the holidays, and that they are about to begin the issuing of a new subscription edition of the works of Daniel Webster in eighteen volumes.

FRED DE FAU & CO., 41 East Twenty-first Street, New York, have in preparation limited editions of the works of Fielding, Smollett, and Defoe, edited by Gustavus Howard Maynadier, of Harvard University, who has prepared a special introduction and critical summary. The volumes will be illustrated by American artists.

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH" continues on its successful way. December was the eighth consecutive month in which it has appeared in The Bookman's list of the six best-selling books of the month. The Century Co. recently declined the offer of a large dealer to purchase 20,000 copies of "Mrs. Wiggs" at a price slightly better than the usual rate in lots of 5000. It is said, in the trade, to be an unusual declination.

MR. J. A. MACKINNON, for more than twenty years with the Brown, Eager & Hull Company, of Toledo, has accepted a position with the Burrows Brothers Company of Cleveland as buyer for their wholesale department. He also becomes a director in the company. The change is to take place on January 1. Mr. Mackinnon is well and favorably known to the trade and his many friends will no doubt heartily join in our best wishes for his success in the new venture.

HERBERT B. TURNER & CO., Boston, have in press "Greek and Roman Stoicism and Some of Its Disciples," by Dr. Charles H. Stanley Davis, editor and commentator of "The Book of the Dead" and author of a "History of Egypt." The book supplies a want among students and those interested in Greek and Roman life and philosophy, and its effect upon Christianity. Dr. Davis is well qualified to write on this subject, and has treated it in a comprehensive and scholarly manner.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish at once Dr. Hugh Macmillan's "Deeper Teachings of Plant Life." He will also bring out shortly "A History of Christianity from St. Paul to Phillips Brooks," by the Rev. William E. Gardner, with an introduction by Bishop Lawrence, one of a new series of popular manuals which in four parts will cover the whole ground of the prophecies, the planting and the progress of Christianity from the very beginning to the close of the nineteenth century. The fourth of the series is the first to appear.

JOHN LANE has in preparation a novel entitled "The Light Behind," by Mrs. Wilfrid Ward, author of "One Poor Scruple," the title of which is taken from a poem by Mrs. Browning containing some pathetic lines on the passing away of earthly joys before the light behind them can be perceived. The book may be expected next January. Mr. Lane will also publish a new novel by Dora Greenwell McChesney, entitled "Cornet Story of Ireton's Horse," a story of the war of the Cavaliers and Roundheads from the rebel point of view.

THERE is a duel on between Mrs. Bertrand Babcock, possibly better known to the public as Onoto Watanna, the author of "The Wooing of Wistaria," etc., and David Belasco the playwright. Mrs. Babcock announced that she intended to apply for an injunction to restrain Mr. Belasco from producing a play called "The Darling of the Gods," because, she claims, Mr. Belasco appropriated the ideas in her book "The Japanese Nightingale," the dramatic rights of which were first offered to him and have since been sold to other managers. Mr. Belasco retorts by obtaining an order for the arrest of Mrs. Babcock in connection with a libel suit for $20,000 damages.

H. S. Cole, the manager of the American Baptist Publication Society, Atlanta, Ga., has brought out "The Dixie Cotton Calendar," which brings a pleasant whiff from the "land of cotton." On a board covered with gray cartouche paper is mounted a spray of cotton bursting from the pod. At one corner is a slice of water melon, at the other a calendar pad of twelve leaves, while the middle is decorated with a facsimile autograph quotation with a pen and ink drawing. A bright red ribbon bow at the top lends further color to the picture. The calendar is unique and artistic and will no doubt find admirers north as well as south. It is carefully boxed and retails for one dollar.

Waldemar Bogoras, of the American Museum of Natural History, will bring out in the early spring next year, in Russia and in New York, a novel describing the life of the uncivilized peoples of northeastern Asia. Mr. Bogoras has spent in all nine years among the tribes whose life he has made his special study. He has been in three Siberian expeditions for the Russian Academy of Sciences, the Geographical Society of St. Petersburg and the Jesup Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History. The title of Mr. Bogoras's book is "Eight Tribes," and the people described are the Tchuktchees, the Koryaks, the Esquimaux, the Kamchadal, the Lamuts, the Yukaghir, the Kuvils and the Tungus.

Funk & Wagnalls Co. have just published "Swords and Ploughshares," a volume of poetry by Ernest Crosby, whose themes bear upon hatred of war and oppression and delight in scenes of peace and industry; "Raymund Lull, First Missionary to the Moslems," by Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer, an interesting account of the work of one of the great missionaries of the Middle Ages, by one who for the past twelve years has been working in about the same Turkish region in which Lull exerted so great an influence; also, "A Quiver of Arrows," a condensation of seventy of the pulpit discourses of Dr. David James Burrell, the pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church of New York City, selected and epitomized by Thomas Douglas.

Much of the best prose work that the late Sidney Lanier wrote is published in his two volumes on "Shakspere and His Forerunners," now issued for the first time by Doubleday, Page & Co. He discusses the predecessors of Shakspere, their work and their influence. Mr. Lanier was one of those uncommon mortals who have the critically analytical and the poetic faculties both highly developed and both thoroughly held in hand. The result has been that while in this book his appreciations are most sympathetic they are penetrated through and through by a logical clearness of vision that serves to intensify the feelings of the justness of his criticism. Practically all of the limited paper edition was subscribed for in advance.

The Madison Book Co., Dexter Building, Chicago, Ill., have secured the publication rights to "Eshek—The Oppressor," by Gertrude Potter Daniels. The book was originally published on November 10 by Rand, McNally & Co., and by that firm withdrawn from sale because of its bitter and thinly disguised attack upon the Standard Oil Company and the several railroad corporations allied with that company. The present publishers report that the book has been printed from the original plates, unchanged in any respect, including the binding and eight full-page plates. The author is the daughter-in-law of George H. Daniels, the well-known passenger agent of the New York Central Railroad.

J. B. Lippincott Company have just published "Social Life in the Early Republic," by Anne H. Wharton, the author of "Salons, Colonial and Republican," and "Through Colonial Doorways," etc. This volume, in binding and format, is a companion to those already published. It is an octavo of nearly 350 pages, with frontispiece in colors and numerous reproductions of portraits and miniatures. Miss Wharton's wide knowledge of the practically untouched period following on Colonial and Revolutionary years, and her ability to make us see the men and women of past times as they really were, are here given the most interesting expression. The Lippincotts have also just issued a work on "King Arthur," by Charles Morris, in the Historical Tales Edition. The work is in three volumes, adequately illustrated.

The Macmillan Company have just brought out a work entitled "Sun Dials and Roses of Yesterday," by Alice Morse Earle, a sumptuously illustrated volume describing old time "garden delights;" "Furniture of the Olden Time," by Frances C. Morse, illustrated by many half-tones of quaint and valuable pieces; "Sir Edward Burne-Jones," by Malcolm Bell; "The Saints in Christian Art: Lives and Legends of the Great Hermits and Fathers of the Church, with Other Contemporary Saints," by Mrs. Arthur Bell; also, a three-volume edition of Thackeray's "The Virginian," with illustrations by C. E. Brock. They will bring out shortly in the Citizen's Library a work by Elwood Mead, chief of the Department of Agriculture, dealing with the monopoly of the water supplies by private persons in the great dry regions of the West that has aroused people in the states of Washington, California, Colorado, Idaho and Montana, to the seriousness of their situation, and has called forth irrigation bills providing for the public control of streams which will be introduced into the legislatures of those states this winter.

R. H. Russell has just issued James Jeffrey Roche's "Her Majesty the King, a romance of the harem, done in American out of the Arabic," in an artistic edition. Mr. Roche's delightfully amusing story is already reckoned an American classic. With the possible exception of "Mr. Dooley," no humorous book of recent years has been so persistently quoted. Oliver Herford has made a series of illustrations in the Oriental manner most happily interpreting the text. One of the handsomest holiday books issued this year by Mr. Russell is "Where the Wind Blows," by Katherine Pyle. The ten tales of wonder which compose this book, though written somewhat in the manner of the "Arabian Nights' Entertainment," have been drawn from the four quarters of the world. They are told with singular charm and in a narrative style that will fascinate readers of all ages. The volume is richly illustrated with a series of original drawings in color by Bertha Corson Day. Mr. Russell has also just brought out a new "Dooley" book, entitled "Observations." There are thirty-seven of them, chiefly on topics of the time, all of them given in the clever humorously-philosophic manner of the sage of Archey Road.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish shortly an elaborate book on Constable by C. J. Holmes, the well-known critic. While no pains have been spared to give an accurate and impartial account of Constable's life and character, the main portion of this book has been devoted first to tracing briefly the rise of naturalism in landscape up to the time of Constable's youth; then to studying very carefully the influences under which the painter developed his own personal genius, and to examining thoroughly the true character of his achievement; and lastly to considering the variations and extensions of Constable's practice, which have had so much influence upon the landscape painters of to-day. The work will be illustrated with a long series of photographs taken especially to show the peculiar characteristics of Constable's technique. There will be two editions, both limited. Apropos of Mr. Sidney Lee's visit to this country the Messrs. Dutton announce that they have made arrangements for the publication of "Elizabethan Sonnets" with Mr. Lee's introduction. The volume is one of the series of An English Garner, in gatherings from our history and literature. Among other editors in the series, which will be in twelve volumes, will be Andrew Lang, Churton Collins, A. F. Pollard and C. H. Firth.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready an important work of travel and discovery in "Through the Heart of Patagonia," by H. Hesketh Prichard, who, under the auspices of Mr. Pearson, the proprietor of the London Daily Express, undertook the fruitless task of discovering the prehistoric mylodon in the forests of the Southern Andes. Failing in this, he nevertheless found enough of interest in that country, of which so little is known to the world in general, to make a very readable book which may also be considered a valuable contribution to geography. The book contains a number of illustrations from drawings in color and black and white by John Gaille Millais and from photographs. They have also just brought out "The Romance of My Childhood and Youth," the autobiography of Mme. Adam, one of the most interesting if not remarkable women of modern France; the third volume of the Expansion of the West series, entitled "Ohio and Her Western Reserve, with a Story of Three States Leading to the latter from Connecticut by Way of Wyoming, its Wars and Massacre," by Alfred Mathews; "A Virginia Girl in the Civil War," the authentic experience of Mrs. Nash, a Confederate Major's wife, edited by her friend, Myrta Lockett Avary; also, a volume of verse daintily bound, entitled "The Sailing of the Long Ships, and Other Poems," by Henry Newbolt.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just issued a "Life of Roger Wolcott," the late Governor of Massachusetts, by Dr. William Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts, who presents the human side of the life of one of the most distinguished of the Commonwealth's many patriotic statesmen; the fifth and final volume of the Letters to Washington, published for the Society of the Colonial Dames of America under the editorship of S. M. Hamilton; a "Handbook of Birds of the Western United States," by Florence Merriam Bailey, with 33 full-page illustrations by L. A. Fuertes and 600 text illustrations; "Trees and Shrubs," by Professor Charles S. Sargent, the first part of a new work in which the author treats of new and little known trees and shrubs, giving plates of each and brief descriptions; also, an Illustrated English Edition of Holmes's "Breakfast-Table Series," illustrated by the celebrated English artist, H. M. Brock, and published in conjunction with J. M. Dent & Co., of London. They will publish in the spring of 1903 a book by the Hon. John W. Foster, entitled "American Diplomacy in the Orient." The work will contain a review of early American intercourse with China, the policy observed toward that country, the opening up of Japan, the political history and annexation of Hawaii, the relation of the United States to the later history of China, Japan, Corea and Samoa, and the results of the Spanish war in the Far East. Mr. Foster enjoys the distinction of a longer connection with the American diplomatic service than any man except John Quincy Adams. His "A Century of American Diplomacy" has just gone into a seventh edition.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Shakspere and His Forerunners

By

SIDNEY LANIER

The largest and most ambitious prose work left by the poet, Lanier. A most vital and interesting study of Shakspere, the man and artist, in the light of his literary predecessors. The author treats suggestively the beginnings of English poetry and what it had become when the strenuous Elizabethan Age carried it to undreamed-of heights; and then, after an elaborate treatment of the sonnet writers from Surrey to Shakspere, he takes up in detail the study of the man, William Shakspere, the social life which surrounded him, and his mental and spiritual evolution as shown by the growth of his art. From the existing evidence and the "relation of man to his fellow man" in the various plays, Mr. Lanier constructs a probable sequence and grouping of the great master's work which bears largely upon its face the story of the man's own life struggle and mighty conquest of himself.

NATURE AND THE CAMERA

BY

A. RADCLYFFE DUGMORE

Author of "Bird Homes," etc.

Mr. Dugmore was the leader and is an expert in the new movement of photographing live birds, animals, fish, flowers, etc. His very beautiful and intimate pictures of natural life have brought him so many requests for information from beginners and fellow-workers that he has set down here a full and detailed account of his methods. From the choice of a camera to questions of lighting, and to the problem of "snapping" shy birds and animals in their native haunts—every step is explained so simply as to be easily comprehended, even by the beginner.

A wonderful book and a wonderful success

THE CONQUEST

By EVA EMERY DYE

NO book published in recent years has more of tremendous import between its covers, and no book published in recent years has in it more of the elements of great and continued popularity. History, romance, adventure, daring, suffering, struggle, and accomplishment—the subjugation of a mighty race by a mightier one—the clearing of a continent, the building of a nation: it is the epic of America.

"A book that should make record breaking paces."—Buffalo Commercial.

"The sense of the sweep of the conquering Anglo-Celt from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be gained from it as from nothing else in print."—Chicago News.

"The essentially American theme dealt with in this book gives it an extraordinary interest for the whole American public."—Richmond Times.

"Should have an honored place in every American library."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"To the young American—the boy in his teens—who has read of the brave Indian fighters of our early history, there is enough of the deeds of our forefathers and hairbreadth escapes to satisfy the most exacting."—Nashville American.

"Its deeds of valor are not for love of woman, but for love of liberty and country. Its heroes are men of silence, men of adventure. Its music is the hum of the spinning wheel and the thud of the axe."—Toledo Weekly Blade.

"As well executed as it is well conceived."—Syracuse Post-Standard.

"The author's style is strong and graphic, the grasp of her subject so firm that it inspires confidence, and despite its wealth of historic lore, has not one dull page."—Detroit Evening News.

"The style is brilliant, dramatic, and enthusing. The reader is carried on from one exciting episode to another, and a series of vivid pictures is rapidly presented, keeping the interest alive from first page to last."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Oom Paul's Own Story

THE MEMOIRS OF PAUL KRUGER

TOLD BY HIMSELF

Published Simultaneously in Many Countries

American Edition Now Ready

THIS is more than an autobiography; it is a powerful defense of one of the most extraordinary political careers of modern times. It reveals the old lion of the Transvaal at bay. In a clear, unvarnished style, abounding in quiet sarcasm and humor, Mr. Kruger aims sledge-hammer blows at his English antagonists. One is reminded of the wisdom of Lincoln and the simple, direct writing of General Grant.

In one handsome volume, finely printed, with two portraits, map and a full index. 450 pages, tall 8*vo. Price,* $3.50 net (postage 20 cts.)

Whitaker's Reference Catalogue.

We are now prepared to supply the "Reference Catalogue of Current English Literature," better known, perhaps, as "Whitaker's Reference List."

The work is arranged on the plan of "The Publishers' Trade List Annual," and contains recent lists of 179 of the more important English publishers. An index is prefixed to the lists containing 135,000 references to the books catalogued. It thus forms one of the most complete records of current English books accessible to the bookseller and librarian.

The work is in two volumes of about 5000 pages, strongly bound in half leather. The price has been fixed at $5.00 net.

As the copies received for the American market are limited, we need hardly remind intending subscribers of the wisdom of placing your order without delay.
